LATEST FROM RALEIGH

Our latest intelligence from Raleigh is contained in the following editorial commentary of the State " to extend her protection to al of the Standard, upon the very interesting persons within her borders." At the present proceedings of the past week's Legislature, the most important of which, at the present should "any person held to labor or service" crisis of affairs, is the passage through the in North Carolina, escape thither, the power Senate of the Resolutions introduced into the House a fortnight since, by Mr. Dobbin: STATE LEGISLATURE.

It will be seen, by reference to our proceedings, that the bill for the relief and assistance of the Wilmington and Raleigh Rail Road Company, has passed the Senate and gone to the Commons. It had its first reading in that body on Monday last.

The bill introduced by Mr Shepard, providing for the repair of the Raleigh and Gaston Road, for a Road to Charlotte, for a Road to Goldsborough, and for other lateral branches. having been twice rejected by the Senate, on Saturday last Mr Ashe presented another bill to that body, providing for a Rail Road from Goldsborough by way of Raleigh to Charlotte. This bill was made the order of the day for troduced into the Commons the above project offered by Mr Shepard, and rejected by the Senate; and on Monday last, when the bill came up, Mr Ashe's bill, above referred to was substituted in its place—so that the two Houses will probably be considering the same measure at the same time. No final action has yet been taken by the House upon the application for a Charter for the Danville and

The bill to lay off and establish a new county by the name of Watauga, has passed both Houses and become a law. The friends of this measure are much indebted, for its success, to the exertions made in its behalf by Messrs Bower, Dobbin, and Courts.

The bill to provide for the construction of a Turnpike Road from Salisbury west to the Georgia line, is still before the Commons. It will probably pass into a law in the course of

On Saturday last, the Senate decided, by a large majority, in favor of locating the Lunatic Asylum at Lexington, in Davidson county The House of Commons, it is thought by many, will disagree to this proposition; and, after all, this Institution will probably be located at the seat of Government.

We are compelled to omit Monday's proceedings Nothing, however, of general importance was perfected in either House. In the Senate, the Bill to amend the Common School Law was taken up, and after having been torn pretty much "all to pieces," by amendments and so on, it was laid upon the table. In the Commons, on the same day, the bill to establish a Medical Board in this State passed its third reading by the casting vote of the Speaker-Mr Cad. Jones, Jr., in Chair. The same body also rejected, on its second reading, by a vote of 54 to 49, the bill making an appropriation for the improvement of the Cape Fear and Deep Rivers.

The Resolutions reported by Mr. Dobbin on the subject of Slavery, are still before the Commons; and on Monday last Mr. Shepard introduced the same Resolutions into the Senate. He spoke of the importance of passing tion to witness some hesitation and want of them at the earliest moment, and said he was prepared to vote upon them at once. On his motion they were made the order of the day for vesterday, at eleven o'clock.

There is a rumor in town-for the correctness of which, however, we do not vouch that Mr. Senator Badger has given his friends to understand that if these Resolutions are rumor be true or false, the Resolutions will pass; and then we shall see-what we shall

There is much talk among the members in regard to a called session, for the purpose of perfecting some, general, scheme of Internal Improvements. The indications of public sentiment, in the course of a very few months after the adjournment, will no doubt be of such a character as to enable Gov. Manly to judge correctly as to the propriety of such a step; and indeed, if nothing should be done with the Raleigh and Gaston Road, and if no efficient measures are adopted to increase the State's income, an extra session will be the next thing to a recessary result.

P. S. We have only room to add, that in the Senate on yesterday, the Resolutions introduced by Mr. Shepard on Monday, on the subject of Slavery, came up for consideration, and were advocated by that gentleman in an Resolution, denying to Congress the constitutional power to legislate on the question of Slavery, the vote was, forty-four in the affirmative, and two in the negative-Messrs. Al-Thompson of Bertie declining to vote. The other Resolutions passed unanimously. On motion of Mr. Bethell, the rules were suspended, and the Resolutions were read a third time and passed. In the Commons, on vesterday, the vote by which the bill to establish a Medical Board in this State was passed, was re-considered; and then said bill was postponed indefinitely.— The Cape Fear and Deep River bill was also re-considered, and laid on the table.

ACCIDENT .- The Steamer Vanderbilt, Capt. Marshall, while on her trip from Charleston to this place, on Sunday morning last, when a short distance from the Main bar, met with a serious accident, in the breaking of her main shaft. Fortunately, the weather was remarkbly mild, and the wind favorable during the whole day, and by the use of the hoat's sails and laborious exertions of her captain and Rail Road Depot, about 7 o'clock, P. Of such a complexion, in particular, is a re cent resolution passed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, to the effect that it is the duty time nothing else can be meant than that of that State is to be invoked for their rescue. The Legislature of Virginia, now in session, justly indignant at the wanton violation of Southern rights hereby implied, have now under consideration a resolution expressive of the sense of her people upon the subject; and Mr. Meale, a member from Virginia having introduced a similar resolution i Congress, to the same purport, and ever member from the South, with some even of the most virulent Abolitionists, having voted in its favor, will the people of North Carolina believe that the resolution was defeated! And more, will the constituents of the Hon, Nathaniel Boyden believe that his vote contribuyesterday. A few days since Mr Mebane in- ted to the result? When the whole South were united, and not one from any other Southern State could be found so shamefully faithless to his trust, we find Mr Bouden, a member from North Carolina, standing alone in treachery and faithlessness. Mr. Boyden, a Whig member from the 2nd Congressional District, we are informed by the official reports, voted against the resolution !

> It behooves the people of North Carolina, it the great crisis which is approaching, if it is not already upon us, to reflect well before they again entrust their interests to one who has shown, by conduct so extraordinary and inexcusable, that his sense of duty is not equal to his ambition. How can we expect to preserve this institution, so dear to us, if our representatives do not reflect our views and wishes? Upon the question of slavery, and the few poor guaranties of which even the madness of faction cannot deprive us, there should be but one voice-there should be but one feeling-and both should be pledged to their maintenance and integrity. We should have been slow to believe that any member from North Carolina would have been the first to contribute by his vote to their destruction; but the official records, and the fact that he stood alone, amidst the entire Southern delegation, convinces us to the contrary.

We rejoice that the great Democratic party in Congress and out of it-in the State Legis. latures and in the primary assemblies of the people all over the country-have ever manifested their fidelity to the compromises of the constitution. There is no shrinking among them from the duties it imposes The Democrats of the North have been hitherto true as steel. If recently we have had the mortificafirmness among them, how can we complain when our own votes in Congress, and the conduct of certain public men in our own State, belonging to the opposite party, so frequently manifest a fatal indifference, and even hostility, to measures calculated to awaken the peopassed he will resign his seat! This is news of a cheering character.

It is no wonder, under such circumstances, that we bear of sixty vessels being up for San Francisco at New York alone, while we hazard nothing in saying that there are twice that number in all, offering for the same place, n various other parts of the country. Emigrants are crowding thither from every section of our country and Canada. These are composed not alone of persons of desperate fortunes, to whom any new field of adventure would be equally interesting, but the great majority are characters of unusual weight, talent, wealth, sobriety, and intelligence. It is to the political consequences of such an assemblage, upon the shores of the Pacific, at the present time, that the attention of the public should be specially directed. Should the Placers continue to yield such golden harvests, the tide of emigration will continue .-The spirit of avarice will give place to the more imposing genius of ambition. The country is at present without laws or civil organization of any kind, and as the same gentleman to whom we have just alluded, graphically remarks, presents the singular spectacle of Forts without soldiers-ordnance without men enough to guard them-towns without men-a country without government, laws, or legislators; and what is more, no one disposed to stop or to make them-and a sort of colonial dependence upon the United States, without even a communication with the United States for two years, or with the navy for

The nineteenth century, so fruitful in great events, never, perhaps, presented so singular a combination as that which, within the last few months, has made California a field for speculation, alike to the politician, the statesman, the adventurer, and the historian. Occupying a space on the map of the continent. countly marked " Unexplored Regions," imagination has long peopled it at will, with forms and sairs; blue genii and bearded men." Strange, if in the explorations of the host of eager adventurers who will now crowd its shores, the yet living symbol of their ancient faith, blazing from the blue peaks of the Sierra Madre, may not reveal the inaccessible sanctuary of some remnant of the ancient Aztec race! Who knows but that we may stand upon the brink of some brilliant discovery? A discovery which may lift the veil which now shrouds in mystic secrecy the fate of millions of the human race, and translate the legends of an unknown people whose monuments yet stand to challenge and defy research!

But not to indulge any longer such roman tie but highly probable anticipations, it is very certain that the town of San Francisco, on the Pacific, with the territory adjoining it, possesses facilities and advantages of no ordinary character. Here we find a country rich in vegetable as well as mineral resources, pos sessing a virgin soil of unparalleled fertility a harbor capable of containing the assembled navies of the world; standing midway on the great high road of nations, it will be more marvellous even than the story of its mineral riches, if it does not become the seat of an active commerce, and the great depot of the China and Pacific trade. The character of the emigrants thither, as we before had occasion to remark, is enterprising, bold, and adventurous, but at the same time is intelligent, selfrelying, and ambitious. When a few years hence the descendants of Washington, resident on the shores of the great Pacific, organized into a separate and independent Republic, shall concede a right of way and Free Trade to their less fortunate brethren on this side the Missisvelty and importance to be submitted to the sippi, then, perhaps, we shall regret that delay in legislation which caused the loss of a valuable and an integral portion of our Republic, and see the folly of an expectation that men, unprotected by our laws and government, stood in this country. It is always the most may not some day organize and declare one
